School of Fine Art at FAD International

Contemporary, interdisciplinary & exploratory, the School of Fine Art at FAD International allows individuals to explore specializations in sculpting, graphic arts, mixed media, photography and film as their media of fine art expression. The school offers International One year Foundation in Art & Design, a One year Diploma in Fine Art and a three years Bachelors Programme in Fine Art with opportunities of term transfers and progression to some of the worlds top art schools.

FAD International is proud of its interdisciplinary practice, and we at the School of Fine Art often play the bridge between the departments of Fashion, Photography, Media and design in many of its projects. From the onset the students at the School of Fine Art are exposed to interdisciplinary practice by being engaged in projects designed to provide the opportunity to push boundaries of knowledge and to think laterally across disciplines.

By working hand in hand with peers and mentors from supporting departments and adapting their research, concepts and technical skills in fine art into other fields; it has always stirred new interests in the students and has translated into some phenomenal works. The school encourages self-exploration and independent research. Every project is evolved through the practice of systematic methodology of researching, responding and recording of a given subject.
